	Choice A	Choice B	Choice C
Workshop 1 11:00 – 12:00	Church Beyond Borders Jeanette Hanson How can your congregation connect internationally? What is happening in China and other Witness ministries? Come to hear about changes in Mennonite Church Canada Witness structure and how you can be involved.	Discipleship in a Digital Age Cindy Wallace How do we follow Jesus in a world full of devices vying for our attention? How might participation in God's Beloved Community turn our approach to technology upside-down? This workshop will draw on the most up-to-date research on current tech trends to generate suggestions for how we can live faithfully, creatively, and joyfully in a digital age--in our individual, congregational, and family lives.	Safe Hands: Reflection and Action Theatre of the Beat Some communities striving to show Christ's love replicate the imbalances of power that are present in our ancient texts. Through theatre activities, participants will explore consent, healthy boundaries, and the use of positive vs. abusive power. Interactive theatre techniques will be used to spark dialogue and equip audiences with the skills to become active bystanders who recognize and intervene in situations where power is being used abusively.
Workshop 2 1:00 – 2:00	Will our Children have Faith? Ana & Daniel Janzen Is this a new question for today's generation, or has every generation asked this same question? What is faith and how do we pass it on to our children? What does our children's faith say about our faith? Come join us, explore the question, and come to share your experiences too.	Having Courageous Conversations Madame Mary Culbertson Treaty Commissioner Madame Mary Culbertson will be talking about "Having Courageous Conversations: it takes a little discomfort sometimes to make paradigm shifts – that's how change happens"	Attaining Free-Fall Spirituality Resource Team Practice falling into God's loving embrace. Experience the exhilaration of spiritual freedom. Come to understand what it means to "Let go and let God".
Workshop 3 2:00 – 3:00	Will our Children have Faith? Ana & Daniel Janzen Is this a new question for today's generation, or has every generation asked this same question? What is faith and how do we pass it on to our children? What does our children's faith say about our faith? Come join us, explore the question and come to share your experiences too.	Discipleship in a Digital Age Cindy Wallace How do we follow Jesus in a world full of devices vying for our attention? This workshop will draw on the most up-to-date research on current tech trends to generate suggestions for how we can live faithfully, creatively, and joyfully in a digital age--in our individual, congregational, and family lives.	How are you Deepening your Walk with Christ? Kirsten Hamm-Epp & Todd Hanson This workshop will look at how congregations and individuals are engaging this year's focus theme, including one congregation's experience with a recent worship resource. This will also be a time of sharing ideas; we want to hear about your experience with this theme, so these ideas can be shared around and benefit everyone.

Rachel Miller Jacobs, D. Min., is a practical theologian/educator with particular interest in how groups (families, small groups, classrooms and congregations) help form mature Christians. Trained as a high school English teacher, Rachel has taught at both the high school and college levels, though she spent the majority of her early adulthood as an at-home parent to three lively sons and as an active lay congregational leader. Once her children were in school, she served as a pastor of Christian formation, as worship resources coordinator for Leader magazine and as a spiritual director. At AMBS, Rachel teaches in the areas of Christian formation, family spirituality, worship and pedagogy.
